

Fellow Tribesmen: Perceptions of Indigeneity in German Nationalism and Nazi Ideology

Special Presentation by Dr. Frank Usbeck

Frank Usbeck is Postdoctoral Research Fellow at Technische Universität in Dresden, having earned his Ph.D. from the American Studies Institute at the University of Leipzig. His research examines German enthusiasm for American Indian culture in the development of a German national identity in the 19th Century and the later use of Native imagery in Nazi propaganda.

2pm, Friday, October 31, 2014

Gittinger Hall 109

Sponsors: Department of English & the Native American Studies Program

For more information, contact Joshua Nelson at joshuabnelson@ou.edu.